BOUNDING ON THE BIL-

LOWS AT CAPE MAY.

Here's Where Oysters are Fine All the Year Round—A Delightful Resort.

CAPE MAY, N. J., August 18th.

Yes, I'm once more on foreign soil; that is, I'm in New Jersey.

Say what you will about Kentucky and her "Colonels;" gibe the old commonwealth as you may about mint and sugar and corkscrews—about the love for whisky and the lack of water as a beverage—it remains a fact nevertheless that there is not more dissipation among Kentuckians than among an equal number of persons from any other state, not excepting Maine, where whisky flows from the family gaspipe but cannot be bought openly and above-board.

And so with New Jersey.

It is a favorite hobby with many to speak of Jersey as a "foreign" country, and to apply to her citizens terms of reproach.

This is all well enough as a bit of levity, but when it is remembered that New Jersey was a battlefield of the Revolution and that her sons were in the forefront of the contest, and again that thousands of them laid down their lives for the restored Union, the grand little state is very much in evidence as a member of Uncle Sam's family, and her citizens as a rule are as clever as any other people.

A vast deal has been written and said and printed and painted about "Washington Crossing the Delaware;" and yet on yesterday I did that very same thing, and not one of the Philadelphia, New York or Cape May newspapers had a word to say about it! George probably "stood in" with the reporters.

If any apology is needed, I will say that the only way to reach New Jersey from the South is to cross the Delaware—or come by sea.

This is the pioneer watering-place on the Jersey coast, and before the war it was patronized largely by Southerners.

But the war broke in on it, as it did on many other meritorious enterprises, and before it was ended there were dozens of other resorts along the coast.

Atlantic City, 61 miles from Philadelphia, caught the seashore patronage of that place, while Long Branch, 20 miles from New York, won the trade of Wall street as well as Chatham.

And then there sprang up several select seashore side-shows that drew more or less, like some patent porous plasters.

Still, Cape May is here, and it proposes to stay right close up to the big brass band in the procession.

There are many elegant and substantial private residences, occupied the year round, while the "cottages" of some summer residents are magnificent mansions.

The hotels are numerous, of imposing appearance, well conducted and well patronized.

Last evening there was a "full dress" hop at one of the big hotels, and the unique feature was that the ladies' gowns were simply full, and no more. Usually, on such occasions, they are so very "full" that a portion of the fair anatomy peeps over the top; but it is to the credit of visitors here that there is a wholesome absence of such display.

However, as it takes all sorts of people to make a complete world, one encounters many different phases even in the most select aggregations.

During the progress of the hop one young female, who was "diked out" to the uttermost limit in her raiment, occupied two chairs on the piazza—one with her form divine and another with her fan—and when an elderly gentleman politely requested the use of the fan-laden chair for a lady, the young female became suddenly deaf—unmistakable proof that all the hogs do not gravitate to Chicago or Cincinnati.

The beach is far superior to that at other points along this coast, and every precaution is taken for the safety of bathers.

During regular hours, from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. a lifeboat is at the bathing grounds, ready to succor any who venture too far or who become ill in the surf.

That LEOBER readers may not think I have struck a free silver lode and am disporting myself and mine at one of the big caravansaries, I will state that we are guests at "Allen-deil," the magnificent Italian villa of the Hon. Charles H. Dougherty of Philadelphia, where he and his charming daughters, Misses Esther and Mary, vie with each other in making one feel perfectly at home.

I am here, as the reader will remember, on the plan of the fellow who gave five notes of $30 each for a hundred dollar debt—he couldn't pay the amount and he didn't want to shock his creditor too heavily at one swoop. So I approached Cape May by easy stages, that host and hostesses might not be suddenly overwhelmed with surprise.

How I will get away I don't know.

The little towboat William Wormald came very near being destroyed by fire at New Haven, W. Va., the other day.

A MASON MAN.

One of the Denver Hotel Fire Victims From This County.

Mr. James Murphy, who met such a terrible fate in the horrible hotel fire at Denver Sunday night, was a first cousin of Mrs. Joseph Lane of Washington, where he was well known and highly esteemed, he having visited there a short time ago.

He went from Cincinnati to Denver some nine years ago, where he was engaged in the business of a contractor.

He was well and favorably known in the former place, and his remains will be brought there for interment.

He was 32 years of age and a man of fine figure and appearance, and very popular wherever known.

The sympathies of all will go out to his family and relatives in their great trouble and sorrow.

WEEKLY CROP REPORT.

UNCLE SAM'S WEATHER CLERK ON THE PROSPECTS.

Condition of Cereals and the Small Crops Throughout Kentucky Up to Monday Evening Last.

With the exception of the injurious effects of the dry weather and high temperature that prevailed during the past week the correspondents have no complaints regarding the general condition of crops. Scattering light local showers occurred at numerous points throughout the state, being moderately heavier in Southern counties, from which section crop reports continue to be very encouraging.

Even in the Western half of the state, where rainfall was excessive only a few weeks ago, the need of copious showers is beginning to be felt. But it is in the Eastern portion, and especially in those counties to the North of Fayette and Clark, that drouth is really serious.

As reported in last week's bulletin these counties include Carroll, Owen, Scott, Harrison, Robertson, Bracken, Mason, Pendleton, Grant, Montgomery, Campbell, Kenton, Boone and Gallatin. In this section the pastures are so dry that cattle and stock have to be fed with corn and other fodder. Water is very scarce. Vegetation of all kinds is rapidly drying up. The general condition of crops in that section is very discouraging and the prospect gloomy.

It is cheerful news, however, to announce that as this bulletin goes to press, there is a very favorable indication of showers throughout the state, especially in the Northern portions, which may bring at least temporary relief to the drouthy situation where it most exists.

Both early and late corn are suffering in the drouth stricken district and unless some rainfall occurs within the next few days both crops will be seriously damaged; or, as some correspondents forebode, a complete failure. In certain other parts of state there is little complaint of corn drying up too soon, but, on the whole, the crop is abundant and in good condition.

Tobacco is ripening rapidly, and generally speaking, is in excellent shape. Moderate rains will help it materially in all parts of the state. In Hancock and Daviess counties, where a large acreage of tobacco was reported last week as having been damaged by July's heavy rainfall, the crop is improving and promising. It is firing where drouth prevails, and also a little in Hart county, but the majority of correspondents agree in that the yield and quality are good.

In the Central and Western sections pastures are in excellent condition. Hemp is said to be a little coarse. The general crop, however, is good, and cutting is progressing.

In some counties Irish potatoes are reported poor, but the average of all reports place the crop from fair to good. Other garden vegetables are much in need of rain.

Fruit is everywhere abundant. Damage has resulted to orchards by reason of the abundance of apples.

Melons are ripening somewhat too rapidly.

The sorghum crop is the best in years. Fall plowing is progressing and the sowing of rye has begun.

BIG PROFITS Small Investments.

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system. It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WALK FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.
